CLAIMS

We claim:

1. A method for detection of sampling frequency offset and correction of the sampling frequency offset, comprising:

causing a matrix of pilot tones to be inserted into data prior to transmission of the data; and causing a receiver receiving the data to pass the data through a synchronization circuit for detecting the sampling frequency offset by reference to the matrix of pilot tones in the data and for correcting the sampling frequency offset.